Unmet Requirements:
- It's difficult to tell what the screen flow is based on the images. They seem to imply screens that should exist but that I do not see an image for; the screen to add a new project, the screen to add a new ticket, the screen to add a new whatever the planner is showing, the contribution / responsibilities / statistics / settings from Profile, etc. Can you include a sketch of how the screens relate to each other? Make sure that it accounts for each button that presents more UI.

Notes:
- The app seems overly complex. Once you've added the overall flow sketch, I think you (or we) should figure out what to drop to make it more manageable. Right now it appears to have some core purpose (project management), but then you are pulling in other things that might not be immediately relevant (calendar, planner, for example). It seems like if you just focus on the project management features it will still be plenty.
